I. IN THIS ISSUE

From the Editor; Final Program for 1989 Annual Meeting; News and Notes; Bibliographic.

II. FROM THE EDITOR

The annual meeting is now just a few weeks away, and I am looking forward to seeing you all in San Antonio. I hope that by now you have all made your arrangements; if not, information about the hotel, ground transportation, and the city is available in the fall Newsletter. As usual, the winter issue contains the final program for the meeting; and judging from the program, we have a very full and stimulating set of sessions in store.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank those of you who have been sending information for the Newsletter over the past year. In particular, I am grateful to several people who have been regularly sending me publications of other organizations: to Katharine Luomala and Tom Riddle of the University of Hawai'i for the newsletter of the Hawaiian Anthropological Association; Grant McCall of the University of New South Wales for the Centre for South Pacific Studies Newsletter; and the staff of University of Hawai'i's Center for Pacific Islands Studies for the CPIS Newsletter. The extent of my indebtedness to these publications for information presented in the News and Notes and Bibliographic sections of the ASAO Newsletter will be obvious to many of our readers.

SPECIAL ONGOING SESSION

TEACHING PACIFIC ISLANDS ANTHROPOLOGY. Meeting Friday 2-5 in the Alamo Room.

Organizer: Bob Franco (Kapiolani Community College)

The "Teaching" session will include a presentation of new curricular developments (texts, film/video, computer simulations) in Pacific Anthropology. If anyone has information on new curricula available from the University of Guam, U.S.P., U.P.N.G., and institutions in New Zealand, Australia, Canada, the U.S., and Europe, please share it at the session, or send the information to Bob (c/o Robert W. Franco, Kapiolani Community College, 4303 Diamond Head Road, Honolulu, HI 96816). Participants will also discuss promising and effective teaching strategies, as well as critical problems in teaching about the Pacific. Issues from the session last year, including the slide bank, videotape accessibility, and Pacific Anthropology courses in the "core" curriculum, will also be addressed. Bob would also like to consider student exchange programs, or study tours (e.g., Karen Nero's project at UC, Irvine; Rick Marksbury's program at Tulane) as a means to stimulating interest in, and understanding of, the peoples and cultures of the Pacific. Finally, Bob would like to receive updated and current course syllabi as his first collection was severely depleted at the Savannah session.

EVENING ACTIVITIES

Opening Plenary Session: Wednesday 8 P.M. in the combined Yellow Rose and Blue Bonnet Rooms (second floor).

Friday night party: Friday 8-10 P.M. in the Alamo Room. The contest this year will focus on performance: singsings, string bands, jewsharps, drumming, and disco--South Pacific Style. Contestants--groups and individuals--should appear in costume if possible. No entries, even those by people with talent, will be rejected.

Closing Plenary Session: Saturday 5:30-7 P.M. in the Alamo Room.

NOTE: For those who wish to carry on their sessions past the schedule time or who wish to hold an impromptu informal session, we have blocks of unscheduled time in the following rooms: Thursday: 2-5 in the Ludwig Mahncke Room and 2-5 in the T.C. Baker Room. Thursday evening: 8:30-11 in the Alamo Room. Friday: 9-12 in the Alamo Room. Anyone wanting to reserve time in those rooms please sign up at the registration desk.

IV. NEWS AND NOTES

A. PETER LAWRENCE MEMORIAL RESEARCH SCHOLARSHIP. The University of Sydney has announced creation of a scholarship in memory of ASAO Honorary Fellow Peter Lawrence. The scholarship was established in 1988 in response to the offer of an annual donation by Peter's widow, Mrs. Fancy Lawrence. It is awarded under the following conditions:

(1) The name of the scholarship shall be the Peter Lawrence Research Scholarship.

(2) The scholarship shall be open to the holder of a postgraduate research award, either from Australia or overseas, and enrolled as a candidate for a postgraduate degree at the University of Sydney.

(3) The scholarship shall be in the form of a grant-in-aid to assist a scholar who wishes to undertake, or is undertaking, research work in one of the following areas, listed in order of preference:

(a) Papua New Guinea

(b) Melanesia

(c) Micronesia

(d) Polynesia and South East Asia

The scholarship shall be awarded on the basis of academic merit and, the appropriateness of the proposed program of research. Preference will be given to candidates enrolled in a postgraduate research degree in the following order:

(a) in Papua New Guinea Social/Cultural Anthropology.
(b) in interdisciplinary research in the areas of Papua New Guinean history, religion, law, politics, social medicine or tropical medicine.

(c) as listed in (a) in the areas of Melanesia (excluding Papua New Guinea), Micronesia, Polynesia and South East Asia.

(4) Awardees of the scholarship may re-apply for the award.

(5) The scholarship shall be awarded by the Academic Board on the recommendation of a selection committee consisting of the Dean of the Faculty of Arts (or nominee), who shall be Chairman; the Professor of the social/cultural area of the Department of Anthropology (or nominee); a practicing Papua New Guinean specialist in the social/cultural area from the Department of Anthropology; and the donor. The selection committee may co-opt one additional member taken from within the University of Sydney or in the wider community.

(6) The scholarship shall be awarded annually, provided there is a candidate whose work is of sufficient merit.

(7) Value $3,000 (indexed to 1988).

B. NEW JOURNAL. The University of Guam announces the formation of an interdisciplinary journal about the Micronesian Region. The journal, entitled ISLA: Interdisciplinary Journal of Micronesian Studies, will publish articles from the disciplines in the social sciences, education and commerce. Papers which provide new insights and understandings about the societies, cultures, histories, educational systems and economies of this rapidly changing area of the Pacific are especially solicited. Contributions may include original research, books for review, analytical essays, bibliographic notes and other papers which advance scholarship about the Micronesian Region.

ISLA is a refereed journal that is overseen by an editorial board of scholars who have demonstrated expertise in the Micronesian Region. Manuscripts should conform to the guidelines of the APA (for technical or research articles) or the MLA Handbook (for essays). Contributions should be 20–30 pages, double spaced, including notes. For more information and submission of manuscripts, please write to:

D. PACIFIC SCIENCE ASSOCIATION INTER CONGRESS. Plans for the 6th Pacific Science Association Inter Congress are underway. It will take place in Vina del Mar, Chile, from August 7-10, 1989. The meeting is being organized by the Institute of International Studies of the University of Chile and sponsored by the Council of Rectors of Chilean Universities.

There are to be two General Symposia: "The Pacific, Bridge or Barrier?: International Relations in the Pacific in the Twenty-First Century," and, "Science, Technology and Development in the Pacific Basin: The Contribution of the Americas, Asia and the Pacific." In addition, there are to be Scientific Meetings on Botany, Coral Reefs, Ecology, Conservation and Environmental Protection, Economics, Entomology, Forestry, Nutrition, Public Health and Medical Sciences, Science Communication and Education, Social Sciences and Humanities, Solid Earth Sciences, Special Meeting: Technical discussion on Pacific Neogen: Stratigraphic, Oceanographic and Andean Events. The Scientific Meetings in Social Sciences and Humanities, from whom details have been received, are focusing on three main topics:

I. Does the Pacific have a Past?
II. Does the Pacific have a Present?
III. Does the Pacific Century have a Future?

The organizing committee indicates special interest in papers which propose the advantages, mechanisms and policies of trans-Pacific cultural cooperation.

The Social Sciences and Humanities program is to have 18 meetings over a three-day period, alternating with global issues in the mornings, and local ones in the afternoons, one day devoted to each of the above main themes. There are to be pre- and post-congress tours around Chile, with special excursions to Antarctica and Easter Island. Information on any of the meetings, expressions of interest, copies of the "Second Circular," may be obtained by contacting:

V. BIBLIOGRAPHIC

A. The American Philosophical Society is publishing a supplement by Ward Goodenough to his Trukese-English Dictionary. This volume supplements the Trukese-English Dictionary published in 1980, providing an English-Trukese index or "finderlist" to accompany the Trukese-English and a concordance of roots in the Trukese-English Dictionary. The concordance lists each root in its base form, followed by the entry of reference in the Trukese-English Dictionary with a gloss and a listing of all other Trukese words in the dictionary in which the root is to be found. Roots from identified loans are listed separately by language of origin. The volume is expected to be available for distribution during the early part of this year.

R. DISPLAY YOUR BOOKS AT ASAO MEETING. Have you written or edited a book in the past year? If so, spread the word at the ASAO annual meeting in San Antonio. Bring a copy (or copies) and order forms (or info about how to order the book) to the meeting for our book display table. Monograph Series Editor Margy Rodman informs me that the University of Hawai‘i, University of California, University Press of America, and Rutgers will send their Pacific publications; but other books and presses are also welcome.
